

Use body language as your secret super power to be more compelling in biz & life

Stephanie Holloway of Elemental Potential, is a body language coach for the modern age. Over 15,000 people, and almost 2000 businesses globally over the past decade have followed her relatable, easy to remember techniques to give them an edge in life, gain more clarity when dealing with clients, and equip teams with the skills to grow a business.

Stephanie works across the world virtually, live streams as a conference speaker, and offers in person training and workshops when she's on the road. She's currently in Parua Bay, Whangarei until the end of November before she returns home to Wanaka.

Come & join us, and celebrate our first in-person event for 12 months, where Stephanie will share with us:

- How to be more compelling by understanding your own baseline, and encode (what your own body does and sends out to the world).
- How to read and interpret manipulators (when a person touches their own head, hair, or face), to gain clarity on what a person is thinking and feeling in human interactions; and
- How to really know when you have someone's attention and interest, and when you've lost them.

According to Stephanie, body language is part science, part observation, and part intuition. It's also easy to learn (if you're paying attention), impossible to forget (once you know what you are looking at) and it's the way we make our mark on the world (whether others realise it, or not!)

Join us for this fascinating talk whilst Stephanie is in our region. And remember to bring your business cards as there will be a lucky door prize!

Please be at the venue ready for a 6pm start. This is our first IN-PERSON event for ages so please ensure you're healthy and well when you attend & please wear a mask.

Programme for the evening:

5.30 - 5.59 pm Registrations and check in
